

Terms of Use

Last updated: July 2021

These terms of use apply to your use of the PwC solution and/or service (the “PwC Technology”). These terms of use may be updated from time to time by PwC in its sole discretion, and such updates will be effective once posted, unless otherwise indicated.

Each member firm in the PwC network (PwC firm) is a separate legal entity. For further details, please see www.pwc.com/structure.

Your use of the PwC Technology is governed by the engagement contract or other applicable agreement between PwC and its client or other party (“User”) authorizing your use of the PwC Technology. In the event of a conflict between these terms of use and the engagement contract or other applicable agreement, the engagement contract or other applicable agreement governs.

The PwC Technology is confidential to PwC. PwC and/or its licensors retain all right, title and interest in and to the PwC Technology.

PwC hereby grants you a non-exclusive, non-transferable, non-sublicenseable licence to install, access, and use the PwC Technology, in accordance with PwC’s instructions, solely for your internal use and in connection with and during the term of PwC’s performance of the services for User under the engagement contract or other applicable agreement.

The PwC Technology:

- I. is not intended to be a repository for or otherwise be a part of User’s permanent records, and User is responsible for separately maintaining copies of any information stored on or made available through PwC Technology;
- II. is provided ‘as-is’ without any express or implied representations or warranties;
- III. is subject to change, suspension, or discontinuation without notice; and
- IV. may only be used at your and User’s own risk, with no responsibility or liability resting with PwC.

You will not misappropriate, infringe, reverse engineer, decompile, disassemble or otherwise attempt to derive the source code, techniques, processes, algorithms, know-how, formulae, methodologies, or other information or any of PwC's rights in the PwC Technology, or otherwise use or access the PwC Technology other than as expressly permitted.

